FUTURE TRENDS

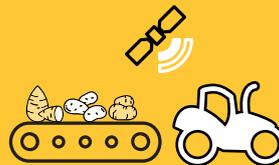

World demand for processed products is set to grow.

Production and world supply will still be dominated by a few North American and European players with new entrants including emerging markets like the Philippines, Indonesia and Chile

As the consumer trend towards new and healthy diets continues, fries will also need to ensure that they remain relevant

There will also be a trend of continuous investment in our value chain – including investment in new potato varieties, in new machinery and in new productivity approaches such as precision farming

International regulation and stricter national barriers could also serve to restrict growth in the dynamic potato processing sector

OUR ADVOCACY

As food manufacturers we advocate for food security as well as a level-playing field around the world and equal access to markets

We cannot achieve this without the support of EU legislators and we call on them to support and defend the Agri-food industry and to create an environment that is fair and conducive to growing business within Europe and beyond
